As part of a commitment to interdisciplinary training in education research, the Committee on Education is pleased to offer a fellowship program to support students researching education-related questions while they are pursuing a doctoral degree in a related discipline.

WHAT IS THE COMMITTEE ON EDUCATION FELLOWSHIP?

The Committee on Education Fellowship Program is open to any student who is applying to a PhD program within a participating department or division at the University. In addition to their departmental stipend, recipients of the fellowship will receive supplementary funds to support research activities related to education.

Participating departments in the Division of the Social Sciences include the Departments of Comparative Human Development, Economics, Political Science, Psychology, and Sociology. Prospective students at the Harris School of Public Policy and the School of Social Service Administration are also invited to apply.

HOW DO I APPLY?

- First, fill out this expression of interest form.
- Next, students should apply for admission to the doctoral program of one of the participating departments of professional schools.
- Finally, complete the Committee on Education Fellowship Program Application.

WHAT WILL I EXPERIENCE?

Each pre-doctoral fellow earns a PhD in a participating discipline while taking part in the Committee on Education’s weekly workshop series. This set of experiences enables each student to contribute particular expertise to answering pressing questions related to schooling from the standpoint of his or her respective discipline, including:

How do we define and measure the skills young people need to become productive later in life? What is the relationship between academic and non-academic skills? How should instruction be organized? What forms should school leadership and governance take to optimize student learning?
RESEARCH OPPORTUNITIES

Participating students have opportunities to join a wide range of ongoing research projects and multiple sites of practice:

- The Urban Education Institute and the UChicago Consortium on School Research, which also administer the UChicago Charter School, UChicago Impact, and the Urban Teacher Education Program
- UChicago STEM Education
- TMW Center for Early Learning + Public Health
- Chicago Heights Early Childhood Center
- Urban Labs
- Center for the Economics of Human Development
